

June 19, 1865

Enslaved African Americans in Texas finally learned that they were free. Major General Gordon Granger of the Union Army stood on a balcony in Galveston, in a loud voice he read an order; "The people of Texas are informed that... all slaves are free."